Nanjangud, Mar. 31 (OSR)- Chief Minister Siddharamaiah entered the Nanjangud by-election campaign "akhada" this morning by conducting a series of road shows and public speeches.

Villagers of Nanjangud and Congress workers gave a rousing welcome to the CM as his specially modified campaign vehicle traversed through the main roads of Nanjangud town and the narrow roads of surrounding villages. They showered flower petals and burst crackers as the convoy moved.

Election to the Nanjangud constituency will be held on April 9 along with Gundlupet constituency. Nanjangud is witnessing a high-voltage battle between Congress (Kalale Keshavamurthy) and BJP candidate (V. Sreenivasa Prasad). CM Siddharamaiah has taken the by-election as a prestige issue as it is a key indicator for the 2018 general elections.

Siddharamaiah arrived at Nanjangud at around 10 am and went to the Congress Office where huge pendals and cut outs were set up. He held a closed-door breakfast meeting with PWD and Mysuru District In-charge Minister Dr. H.C. Mahadevappa, former Ministers Allum Veerabhadrappa and C.M. Ibrahim, Chamarajanagar MP R. Opposition to Law Commission recommendations

Lawyers abstain from work

Mysuru, Mar. 31 (PM&DM)- City advocates abstained from work today in response to the call given by Karnataka State Bar Council to boycott Court proceedings to oppose some of the proposed recommendations made by the Law Commission of India to the Advocates (Amendment) Bill, 2017.

The Karnataka State Bar Council had expressed support to a nationwide call given by the Bar Council of India (BCI), asking the lawyers to boycott Court proceedings today, as some of the suggestions made by the Commission in its report submitted to the Ministry of Law were against the interests of the legal fraternity.

The recommendations that the lawyers are opposing are: The provisions for including persons other than from the field of Law to the State Bar Council; for making retired Judges of the Supreme Court as members of the Special Grievances Redressal Committee of BCI; for imposing fine up to Rs. 3 lakh against lawyers found guilty of misconduct and awarding payment of compensation of up to Rs. 5 lakh to a person aggrieved by lawyer's misconduct; and for prohibition on boycotts or abstention from Court's work by lawyers.

The advocates, after abstaining from Court work for the day, met at the Association Office in the city Courts Complex and staged a demonstration to register their protest.

Wasted workforce

The grim side to the matter relating to school drop-out seems to have sidelined many important points both reflecting the inputs into the schooling pool by the players, including teachers, administrators, litterateurs as well as parents and resulting from their below par functioning, barring exceptions. Placing emphasis on the volatility of the rate of drop-outs year-on-year, officially claimed to be falling steadily and steeply, rather than the actual number in the flock getting added and swelling the mass is the crux of the matter. While the goings on in the government, ostensibly to rein in the unrelenting expansion of the dropout population, invariably all teenagers, are nothing much to write home about, the private sector has its task cut out in grooming the youth into a mass of productive workforce, although far short of the nation's growing need for human resources armed with skills of the right quality.

In addition to the steady expansion of teenager's population disenchanted with schooling, the poor return on investment to educate the youth because of the mass taking to callings unrelated to what was learnt over years, has clearly made the planners and economists tongue-tied, leaving the law-makers leaden-footed.

The litmus test for feeling a sense of fulfilment on the part of parents in particular in supporting their offspring through the 15 or so years of learning in schools, colleges and other institutions is unarguably to see their progeny stand on their own feet as it were in life. The scenario in Mysuru, of the growing number of youth getting lured by self-appointed leaders to be engaged in staging noisy road-shows, is typical of the current national scenario, with the rest in society as mute witness with no clue on what to do for arresting societal decline.

The yawning gap between education that the nation's gen next is being subject to and skills needed in different sectors of the economy was once again raised at a recent conclave at which the participants were informed that 65 % of school-bound children get pepped up for jobs that do not yet exist. While the youth is not enabled to play their role in raising the economic dividend of their schooling, the nation is bearing the load of wasted workforce.

Cow cuddling therapy

Bern: If you're looking for a unique but sure way to let loose and forget about the stress of your daily life, head off to the Swiss country side for a session of cow cuddling therapy. It's sure to do the trick!

Sibylle Zwygart's family runs a dairy farm in Tenniken. Switzerland's Basel-Landschaft canton. Three years ago she and her father were watching over one of their cows during calving, her father's trained eyes immediately noticed that two of the calves were sterile females, and the third was a bull, so none of them were of any use for their dairy business. Sibylle's father planned to sell them all to the slaughterhouse, but she pleaded with him to let her keep them. The 25-year-old came up with the idea for cow cuddling therapy after reading about it being used in the Netherlands to help people slow down their hectic lifestyle and relax. She thought Svea, Sven and Svenja were perfect for the "job" and for the last year, Zwygart has been organising cow cuddling sessions on her family's farm in Tenniken.

Fire Paan: Street snack of India

New Delhi: Paan has been a part of Indian cuisine since Vedic times, and today, many varieties are served at street stalls all across the Asian country. But with competition as fierce as it is, paan vendors are constantly working on new types of paan, the most impressive of which is definitely fire paan – a flaming hot snack that is literally set on fire. Paan regularly consists of a mixture of spices, mukhwas, dried fruits, and sugar wrapped inside a betel leaf. According to Ayurvedic medicine, paan can cure a variety of ailments, and also used a breath freshener and a virility booster. Pradhuman Shukla's family has owned a street food stall in Delhi, India, for over 20 years, his business took to new level after he started selling fire paan. People can't get enough of it, and he's recently been featured in a video went viral online. The 31-year-old entrepreneur says a year ago a former employee came up with the idea of setting the paan on fire before serving it to customers, and they've been doing it ever since.

Video-shooting in classrooms, a boon to teachers and students

Sir,

Apropos the letter titled "Video-shoot of classroom lecture, a novel idea indeed" by T.S. Narayana Rao (Star of Mysore dated Mar. 18), I am also of the opinion that it is a very good proposal from the point of view of teachers and also from the students' perspective.

Of course, what Dr S. Dandapani has said in his letter is very much true.

It is the responsibility of the senior teachers to guide and motivate the budding teachers in the right direction so that they can deliver the lectures efficiently.

In this regard the institutions have initiated a number of sponsored workshops, summer and winter school programmes, faculty development programmes etc. We are now in the era of Choice Based Credit System (CBCS) which mainly focuses on student-centric rather than teacher-centric. It is a collaborative learning process in which the student instead of being a passive listener, will be an active participant in the knowledge dissemination process. Hence it is very essential for the students to interact and communicate not only with the teacher but also among themselves in the classroom.

Video-shooting in classroom not only reflects the performance of the teachers but also the students performance. At the end of the day both of them know where they stand. This in turn will definitely help the teacher to improve his/ her teaching capability and also the students to improve his/ her learning capability.

In order to achieve effective teaching learning process the management of the institution must create a conducive environment for the teachers to work with pride and dignity.

Milk price up by Rs. 2 from tomorrow

Bengaluru, Mar. 31- Nandini Milk will become dearer by Rs. 2 in Southern Karnataka from April 1. In the Northern districts, the price goes up by a rupee.

With this increase, Nandini toned milk, earlier priced at Rs. 33 a litre, now goes up to Rs. 35 in areas under the Bengaluru, Mandya, Kolar, Tumakuru, Mysuru, Hassan, Shivamogga and Mother Dairy Unions. In places under the Belagavi, Raichur, Ballari and Dakshina Kannada Unions, the price which was Rs. 34 a litre, is now Rs. 35.

Explaining the rationale behind the price hike, the Karnataka Co-operative Milk Producers Federation said that the State is facing the worst-ever drought in over 4 decades, leading to scarcity of fodder and drinking water.

The price was last hiked in Jan. 2016, when the milk price was increased by Rs. 4 a litre.

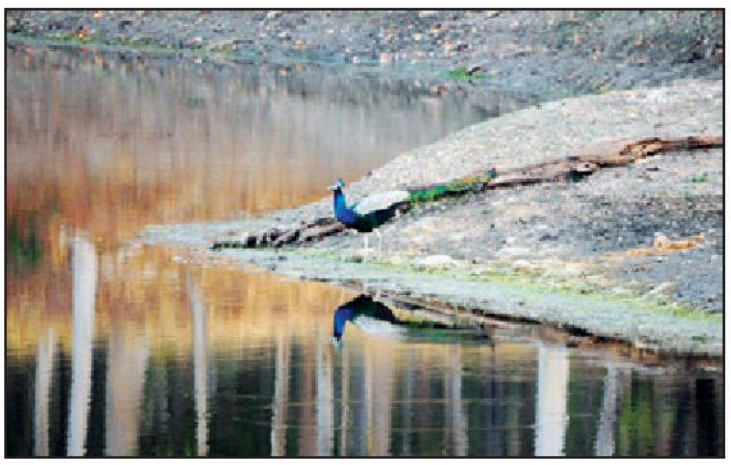
Tiger, Tiger, Burning Bright!

The eighteenth century poet William Blake in his poem 'The Tyger' has extolled the terrifying but mesmerising majesty and power that a tiger exudes. He marvels over how God himself must have felt amazed and mesmerised by this majesty and grace after creating the king of beasts. This poem which has been considered as one the world's most anthologised poems and also Blake's most famous work was included in the poetry that we had to study in our PUC days and Prof. M.S. Krishna Rao, our English professor at the St. Philomena's College made a very deep and lasting impression of his own prowess as a capable teacher on our young minds when he chose to annotate this poem in his very first class.

This brief session made me a very devoted disciple and ardent admirer of this very humble and soft-spoken man, always clad in a dark suit, who however never hesitated to put his foot down when it came to standing for his principles and ideals. I have still preserved my class test papers that he has corrected wherein he has under-lined in red ink the word 'coming' which I had written with a double 'm'. Since he knew from my father who was his college-mate and friend that I was aspiring to become a doctor he told me in his next class that the word 'coming' has just one 'm' in it irrespective of how fast I was coming and the word 'vomiting' had only one 'm' in it irrespective of how severe the problem was!

Like William Blake I am also an admirer of the tiger and I too feel that it is a beast that is the ultimate example of grace and form. Last month my wife and I had an occasion to spend a weekend at the Pench Wildlife Sanctuary in Madhya Pradesh (MP), a State which because of its geographic location rightfully proclaims itself as the 'Heart of India'. It is also a State that takes pride in calling itself 'Tiger Country' because in addition to Pench, it has two other sanctuaries, Kanha and Bandhavgarh, which are famous for tiger sightings.

Tiger, Tiger, Burning Bright!



A peacock admiring itself.

A herd of spotted deer.

Although we take pride in the fact that we have a sizeable population of tigers in our forests and also proclaim that their number is growing, thanks to our conservation efforts, sighting one in the wild is a very rare occurrence because tigers are very elusive animals. The stealth that is required of any tiger to successfully catch its prey is perhaps what makes it habitually very careful in ensuring that it remains unseen. That is why the sighting of a tiger even as a fleeting glimpse is considered the luckiest thing that can happen on a visit to our wildlife sanctuaries across the length and breadth of our country. That is also why there are special boards in the reception areas of most wildlife sanctuaries on which tiger sightings are recorded along with the date, time and location. These records are meant to encourage more people to visit the place with the assurance that with a little bit of luck on their side they too can sight a tiger. These are also perhaps meant to cheer up the disappointed visitors who return from their safari rides cursing their bad luck and commenting that there are perhaps no tigers at all in the wild anymore!

My wife was also one such sceptic and her scepticism was not without reason. Over our many visits to wildlife sanctuaries over the past few years we had never run into a real tiger either by day or by night. The only tigers that we had seen were the ones staring out at us from the publicity hoardings put up at every bend in every road passing through the sanctuary. It was just to dispel this sense of scepticism that we decided to make the trip to Pench, having heard from friends that Lady Luck resided there alongside the forty or so resident tigers! Now, Pench is a fairly large tract of lush forest that straddles the two States of Maharashtra and MP. It is bifurcated by and named after the Pench River that flows through it from North to South. Although the place has seen much tiger killing during the times of our gun-toting Maharajas and the visits of their British Sahibs, thankfully it has now become a haven for all kinds of wildlife including many species of resident and migratory birds.

Our stay had been arranged at 'Tathastu', one of the many resorts that dot the countryside in surprisingly close proximity to the sanctuary itself. It was a very comfortable place but it was not the material comforts that we were looking for here. We were very eager to get down to the business of getting onto one of the many Gypsies that take visitors into the depths of the forest. But we could do this only the next morning when our group had its booking for the safari. The petrol-powered Maruti Gypsy because of its silent engine and good off-road capabilities is undoubtedly the most suitable vehicle for this drive. It appears there are nearly seventy Gypsies owned by the local people from the surrounding villages who have registered them with the forest department. To ensure that the livelihood of the local people is not affected, the resorts and hotels are allowed to own just two vehicles each. The whole system is very smooth and efficient and I wish our own State government takes a few lessons from it in improving the arrangements which are far from satisfactory at present. Each open-top vehicle accommodates a maximum of six visitors along with a guide and driver. Entry into the forest is through two gates at which all visitors have to submit proof of their identity in a form that is maintained by the driver of their vehicle. Once inside the sanctuary, visitors are not permitted to alight from their vehicles for any reason and are also refrained from talking loudly or creating any kind of commotion that might disturb the animals. A very note-worthy point is that the guides and drivers are very cooperative and coordinated in their efforts to ensure that the tourists have the best opportunity to not only view the animals and birds but also photograph them to their complete satisfaction. At the end of the ride they just get down from the vehicles and disappear quietly into their resting facilities nearby without lingering near you for any tips or bakshish even after the best sightings!

Most resorts and hotels pack a sumptuous picnic hamper for their guests who go on safari and the four-hour drive is interspersed with a break for breakfast at a vast grassland at which good rest-room facilities are provided. The Gypsies enter the sanctuary in two groups of about twenty vehicles each through two gates, one from the Madhya Pradesh side and the other from the Maharashtra side. The guides and drivers do a very coordinated job of ensuring that visitors get to see at least one tiger in about two safaris. Our first entry through the MP gate although quite successful considering the good animal and bird sightings did not get us the tigers that we were seeking. But our second drive from the Maharashtra side got us our prize catch. It was a young tiger that was lazing under a huge tree and licking its lips presumably after a hearty meal. It seemed to have come alive in all its majesty and grace straight from Blake's poem! We saw and photographed it to our heart's content till it decided to get up and walk away. But in a beastly impulse it turned around suddenly and stood up on its hind feet and started mauling the tree it was resting under. This act too was much relished and recorded amid soft aahs and oohs by everyone in our group till the magnificent beast decided that we had seen enough for the day and walked away into the depths of its forest! It was indeed a very refreshing experience!

Flight operations from Mysore Airport soon, says MP

Pratap Simha

New Delhi, Mar. 31- Regular flight operations will soon begin from Mysuru under the first phase of the Centre's Affordable Regional Connectivity Scheme, said Mysuru-Kodagu MP Pratap Simha. He said that five airliners have been selected to operate 128 routes, including Mysuru under the Udan scheme in which the airfare is capped at Rs. 2,500 for a one-hour flight.

The first flight under Udan (Ude Desh ka Aam Naagrik) is likely to hit the skies in April. Selected airliners will get subsidy to fly passengers. Five carriers — SpiceJet, Air India's subsidiary Alliance Air, TruJet, Air Deccan, Air Odisha and Turbo Megha — will operate on these routes, putting 31 un-served airports on the national flight map apart from utilising 12 under-served airports, the MP said.

According to the scheme, up to 40 seats in such flights would have a fare cap of Rs. 2,500 per seat/hour. Operators will get viability gap funding (VGF) from a fee levy on flights operated out of big cities, which means an increase of about Rs. 50 in fares for passengers on those routes. The Govt. estimates that about Rs. 205 crore would be spent per year as VGF.

As of now, only 76 airports in India are connected with schedule commercial flights. As per the target fixed by the Ministry of Civil Aviation, under Udan, 33 airports which did not get flights will be on the air map. 50 airports will be revived in next two years in small towns, Ministry sources said.

"Indira Canteen" taste to beat "Amma Canteen"

U.T. Khader

Bengaluru, Mar. 31 (KMS& BCT)- The ambitious project of the State Government to supply heavily-subsidised quality food under the banner "Indira Canteen" will be expanded to other cities in the State. Initially, the project will be launched in Bengaluru at 198 wards of Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike, said Food and Civil Supplies Minister U.T. Khader.

Speaking to reporters here yesterday, Khader said that once the project is implemented in Bengaluru, it will be expanded depending on the popularity. To fulfil the requirements of "Indira Canteen", the State Government is spending Rs. 100 crore annually, he said.

"Food at "Indira Canteen" will be better than that of "Amma Canteen" which is a huge hit in Tamil Nadu. There is no question of compromising on quality just because we are offering food at subsidised rates," the Minister said. Proposed in the budget as "Namma Canteen", the project was rechristened as "Indira Canteen" following a demand by Congress leaders.

"The government has got expression of interest from different firms on the prices of food items that could be served in the proposed canteens. We have also told them that each food item should weigh a minimum of 350 to 400 gm," Khader said.

He added that the government had planned to rope in ISKCON that has expertise in mass cooking to supply food to "Indira Canteen". "We had to drop ISKCON as it was not willing to use onion and garlic in its food preparations. We are looking at other companies and vendors who can fulfil the requirements," he said.

"Breakfast, lunch and dinner will be served and initially, food will be prepared for 250 persons in each ward and gradually, the quantity will be increased based on the response," Khader added.

SC Constitution Bench to hear triple talaq cases from May 11

New Delhi, Mar. 31 - The Supreme Court yesterday fixed May 11 for hearing pleas challenging validity of triple talaq. The SC further said that a Five-Judge Constitution Bench will hear the matter. The Court said it would hold daily sittings between May 11 and May 19 to decide pleas by Muslim women to declare the practice of oral talaq illegal.

The Muslim clergy, represented by the All India Muslim Personal Law Board and others, have argued that triple talaq has the sanction of the Quran, forms part of Muslim personal law and, therefore, falls squarely outside the purview of the judiciary. The Centre has argued that the issue concerns gender justice rather than religious rights of the minority community, setting the stage for a legal battle which can have serious repercussions.

Triple talaq has faced repeated legal challenges in recent years, and the government has said it wants to replace it with a new uniform civil code applicable to all religious groups. But that proposal has met stiff opposition from Muslim groups, who argue that it would discriminate against them.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi said that it was his administration's duty to ensure the rights of Muslim women were upheld.

India has separate sets of personal laws for each religion governing marriage, divorce, succession, adoption and maintenance. While Hindu law overhaul began in the 1950s and continues, activists have long argued that Muslim personal law has remained mostly unchanged.

Goodbye SBM... Welcome SBI

104-year-old bank to be merged with State Bank of India tomorrow

Mysuru, Mar. 31 - The 104-year-old State Bank of Mysore (SBM) is all set to enter the history books tomorrow (Apr.1) when it will be merged with the State Bank India (SBI) as per Government of India notification.

Popularly known as the 'Mysore Bank' in the Old Mysore region, it was started by the then Maharaja Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar in 1913 on the request of the then Dewan Sir M. Visvesvaraya.

SBM was appointed as an agent of Reserve Bank of India (RBI) in 1953 to undertake government business and treasury operations. Later in March 1960, it was made a subsidiary of State Bank of India under the SBI Subsidiary Banks' Act 1959.

The Head Office of SBM, located on Kempegowda Road in Bengaluru, will be converted into 'Mysore Bank Museum.' The Museum will house all historic documents of the bank, right from the first share certificate to some of the key documents about economic and business growth of the region.

With its network of 1,087 branches across the country, SBM's total business turnover has exceeded Rs. 1.33 lakh crore as of Nov., 2016.

For the customers, there is nothing to worry as the bank officials expect the data merger is expected to be much smoother process as the software used by SBI and its associate banks are similar.

The name boards of most of the SBM and other associate banks such as State Bank of Travancore, State Bank of Hyderabad, State Bank of Patiala and others have been removed and new boards with SBI nomenclature are expected to be placed soon. This apart, the ATMs will have the common board as 'State Bank ATM.'

CM campaigns

The CM later got on to a modified goods vehicle that was specially designed for the road show. The vehicle was surrounded by Congress flags and had the banners of ballot papers that had the photo of Kalale Keshavamurthy and the party symbol next to it.

Proceeding from Nanjangud, the vehicle reached Goluru where villagers burst crackers and showered flower petals at the CM. Some party workers climbed trees and buildings to shower flowers. They shouted pro-Congress slogans that rent the air. In his public addresses – at places he got down from the vehicle and addressed villagers standing under the shades of peepal trees – Siddharamaiah was convincing voters to vote for Congress.

YEDDYURAPPA'S CONVOY STRANDED

The Chief Minister's road show resulted in traffic jams in and around Nanjangud town. Caught in the jam was BJP State President and former CM B.S. Yeddyurappa who was heading to Chamarajanagar in a seven-vehicle convoy along with Nanjangud BJP candidate and former Minister V. Sreenivasa Prasad. As CM's road show reached Badanavalu and was proceeding towards Mahadevapura, Yeddyurappa's convoy too reached the same place, causing a traffic jam. Yeddyurappa had to wait for over 15 minutes for the road show crowd to pass. Yeddyurappa's Man Friday Kapu Siddalingaswamy got out of the vehicle and was seen requesting Congress workers to clear vehicles to make way for "sahebru".

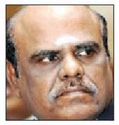
SCHOOL CHILDREN RUSH OUT OF CLASSES

When the Chief Minister's road show entered Chinnadagudi village hundreds of school children rushed out of a school to see the political leaders. They came out of classrooms and shouted slogans praising CM Siddharamaiah. Teachers had a tough time in controlling the children and they were seen pleading with them to return to the classrooms. Seeing this, a few villagers told the teachers to allow the children watch the campaigning leaders.

YOUTHS HAULED UP

A group of 15 youths were hauled up by the Police today for shouting anti-Siddharamaiah slogans. As Siddharamaiah's convoy returned from Badanavalu and neared Badanavalu Gate, a group of youths shouted slogans against CM Siddharamaiah. The Police who swung into action dispersed the crowd and allowed the rally to move ahead.

Justice C.S. Karnan appears before SC; says "jail me"



New Delhi, Mar. 31 - Calcutta High Court's Justice C.S. Karnan — whose refusal to turn up before the Supreme Court to face contempt proceedings had led the top court to issue a bailable warrant against him — appeared before the top court's seven-judge bench this morning.

The 61-year-old controversial judge argued his case before the bench headed by Chief Justice Jagdish Singh Khehar. He was as defiant as ever.

When the seven-judge bench — which had stripped him of his administrative and judicial work in February — declined to accept his plea to restore his work, he dared them to "send me to jail" in the contempt case. "Restore my work or next time, I will not appear before your court," the judge said, adding, "I am not a terrorist or anti-social person".

Life-term for cow slaughter in Gujarat

Ahmedabad, Mar. 31 - Punishment for cow slaughter in Gujarat will be a life-term after an amended law was cleared on the last day of the State Assembly session today.

The Gujarat Animal Preservation Act of 1954 also says the punishment for transporting of cows will be 10 years in jail. In the current law, which was amended in 2011, the maximum jail term for cow slaughter was seven years.

Indefinite strike by lorry owners enters Day-2

Mysuru, Mar. 31 (RKB&VNS)- The indefinite strike called by various Lorry Owners Associations and others entered Day-2 today with around 800 lorries keeping off roads thus affecting the transportation of goods.

The lorry owners have been strongly opposing the move to scrap lorries older than 15 years, steep hike in insurance premium for lorries, hike in RTO fee among others.

Speaking to Star of Mysore, Mysore District Lorry Owners Union Treasurer Prakash said that scrapping of the lorries will be a huge loss for the owners and added that it would be difficult for the local lorry operators to survive by purchasing new lorries.

Around 300 lorries were parked in Railway Goods Shed, 80 lorries in Food Corporation of India (FCI) gowdown, 250 lorries in RMC Yard and around 200 inter-State lorries were seen parked on the outskirts of the city.

WORD OF THE DAY

Ersatz

Pronunciation: ER-zahts, -sahts, er-ZAHTS, -SAHTS
Meaning: Serving as a substitute; synthetic; artificial; an artificial substance or article used to replace something natural or genuine.
Example: It's an ersatz coffee made from grain.
Origin: Ersatz is borrowed from German, where it derives from the verb ersetzen, "to replace." It entered English in the mid-1800s.

THE ODD WORD

Gabbart
Barge.

IDIOM OF THE DAY

Lark about

Meaning: Play the fool, in a childish or careless manner.

Origin: There are several possible derivations of the word 'lark' in this context. 'Larking about' or 'lark about' (sometimes used as 'larking around' or 'lark around') has been used to mean 'getting up to mischief; playing the fool' since at least the middle of the 19th century. At source its origins may well be somewhat earlier than that; how much earlier depends on which of the proposed origins proves to be correct. The principal theories are that either:
'Larking' derives from the Yorkshire dialect word 'lake', meaning 'to amuse oneself'; for example, in a book byWilliam of Palerne, circa 1350:
[He] layked him long while to lesten at mere. [listen to merriment]
'The Yorkshire pronunciation of 'lake' sounds like 'laik', which could be mistaken for 'lark' outside the county.
'Larking' derives from 'skylark' and alludes to the well-known aerial acrobatics of the European Skylark. Skylarks were first defined in a rather unlikely source, The Student's Comprehensive Anglo-Bengali Dictionary, Kanta, 1802: Skylarking, the act of running about the rigging of a vessel in sport; frolicking. The use of 'lark' as a verb begins soon after that, as in an entry for 1813 in the diary of Lieutenant Colonel Peter Hawker:
"Having larked all the way down the road."
